Editorial

On June 4th, 2025 Hemo Prova Borbora Girls' College, Golaghat reached a remarkable milestone by attaining autonomous status, becoming the first Girls' College in Northeast India to receive this prestigious recognition by University Grants Commission. This achievement marks the beginning of a new chapter, opening doors to innovation, academic freedom and greater opportunities for both students and faculty. Autonomy empowers our institution to design and update curricula that are relevant, dynamic and tailored to the evolving needs of society and industry. It allows us to introduce new courses, modernize teaching methods and implement assessment systems that truly reflect students' understanding and skills.

In line with the vision of the National Education Policy (NEP) 2020, our college is committed to equipping students with practical skills that go beyond textbook knowledge. By offering courses in areas such as digital literacy, entrepreneurship, communication etc we aim to bridge the gap between theoretical learning and real-world application. This approach not only enhances employability but also fosters creativity, critical thinking and adaptability among our students.

With the autonomy granted to our arts college, we have a unique opportunity to develop innovative courses that align with emerging global trends and prepare students for the future. We can introduce programs in digital and new media arts, focusing on AI-assisted creativity, virtual and augmented reality, and interactive installations, reflecting the growing role of technology in artistic expression. Courses that encourage transdisciplinary practices, blending visual arts with literature, performance, and even technology, will foster creativity across boundaries. Emphasizing art's role in sustainability and climate action will enable students to engage with pressing global issues through their work. Expanding our curriculum to include global and inclusive art histories will promote diverse perspectives beyond traditional Eurocentric narratives. To equip students for professional success, entrepreneurship and art market courses can teach skills in self- promotion, digital platforms, and freelancing. Additionally, integrating workshops and internships in curation, arts management, creative writing, and arts education will provide hands-on experience and industry exposure, aligning perfectly with the National Education Policy 2020's focus on skill development and employability. These initiatives will empower our students to become innovative, socially conscious artists ready to navigate and shape the evolving global arts landscape.

Internships have become an essential component of higher education, especially under the framework of NEP 2020. By providing hands-on experience in professional settings, internships enable students to apply classroom concepts, update relevant skills and gain insights into their chosen fields. These experiences are invaluable in helping students make informed career choices and build networks that support their future growth. The emphasis on internships also strengthens the bond between academia and professional world, ensuring that our graduates are well-prepared to meet the demands of the modern workforce.

The journey towards autonomy is not just about institutional growth; it is about nurturing well-rounded individuals who are ready to contribute meaningfully to society. As we celebrate this significant achievement, let us reaffirm our commitment to excellence, innovation and holistic education. Together, we look forward to a future where our students are empowered, skilled and inspired to lead with confidence.
