Annual Newsletter

H. P. B. Girls' College(Autonomous), Golaghat
Vol. XV, 2026 (1st November, 2025 to 31st October, 2026)

From the Principal's Desk

It gives me immense pleasure to welcome you to the 15th edition of our college newsletter, Hemojyoti, a confluence of the vibrant events, activities and achievements of students and teachers that add to the glory of our family of H.P.B. Girls' College(A), Golaghat. I would like to take this opportunity to showcase the experiences of being a part of a women's institution that shapes not only a student but a self-reliant young woman and a responsible citizen of the country. Hemajyoti archives these experiences for the audience as it seeks to inspire growth for all the generations to come.

Accredited with an A' grade (3.20 CGPA) by NAAC in the year 2022, and after achieving her autonomy on 4th June, 2025, making her the first women's college in the Northeast India to have received the status, H.P. B. Girls' College has never left any stone unturned in empowering her girls for a better and secured future. From spotting different students with different areas of faculty, creating awareness about the modern challenges faced by women, and how to face these challenges with modern techniques of survival, to making them honest, resilient, empathetic and human in true sense, has been the motto of our institution. The dedicated faculty members of this institution continually strive to polish and redefine themselves every day, so that they are eligible enough to add wings to the dreams of these young women and help them in turning those dreams into reality.

My heartiest congratulations to everyone involved in this proud moment of Hemajyoti's successful publication as I can already foresee the institution marching forward with its motto and building lives of the young women, adding in more accolades, achievements and recognition to the ever-growing and ever-developing history of H.P.B. Girls' College(A), Golaghat. I wish each member of this institution an unwavering spirit to continue dreaming big and building a healthier, more inclusive and empowered society.

From Memes and Hashtags to Creating History

GenZ, a generation that has long been under the scrutiny of its predecessors, has successfully placed the ball in its court and marked a place in the history of youth movement. Usually considered to be hiding behind the screens of digital media and to have a patience level of 30 seconds reel, this generation has proved themselves to be beyond memes and hashtags. Ironically, hiding behind these very digital curtains, they built an army against corruption. Like an unprecedented Tsunami, they flooded the streets of Delhi, gathered at the Jantar Mantar and knocked at each and every slumbering mind of the Indian citizen when the younger generation faced the music of paper leak.

The GenZ led protest that awakened the nation came into force not only as a reaction against the paper leaks and the unfortunate loss of young lives that followed, but as a crashed dam of years of suppression, injustice, lack of accountability and fear of questioning. Apart from one of the major achievements, the resignation of the Union Education Minister Dharmendra Pradhan on 25th July, the protest raised awareness about all the faulty systems of the country, ranging from law and order to politics. Sweeping across the 2026 India, the major achievement of this protest was that it changed the narrative of the fragmented, distanced and nonchalant Generation Z. It was their unique, stylish, peaceful and sometimes funny way of protesting that grabbed the country's attention. The witty memes with hashtags made way from the digital screens to the streets of the entire nation changing the vocabulary of protests that were once considered futile.

Well, what happened after the protest and after Mr. Pradhan resigned? The nation was stitched with the colour of an essential question- the question of education and the future of the young generation. Was NEET paper leak the only cause of 21 deaths of the young and brilliant minds? The answer lied deeper in the uncomfortable shreds of social and parental expectations that have long been unrealistic and imposing on the younger generation. Moreover, political manipulation, paper leaks and a persistent lack of accountability, compassion and a solution have disregarded and undermined the years of mental and financial commitments made by the students and their parents.

Now, what role does an educational institution play here? How can educational institutions minimize the number of tragedies that unfold as a result of everything discussed above? Academics offer far more than merely fulfilling the conventional expectation of providing degrees. Within the four walls of the classroom, a student learns to listen, question and examine everything that is taught; this lays the foundation for the concerned citizen who, having once been a student, learns to question everything in life that feels unjust. Academics is not limited to the performance of students in examinations; rather, it is responsible in creating the future of a country, a future led by the young minds that take shapes within those four walls of the classrooms. This protest made us realise that schools, colleges and universities do not just need teachers to function, but educators who must contribute in the holistic development of the students. Geotagged photographs and documentation of events that substantiate the assessment process of an educational institution should not be the sole criterion of achievement; it is the personal influence, commitment and care of an educator that ultimately shape the character of a student. Creating a healthy democracy where the citizens do not fear protesting against injustice, where the citizens do not fear being labelled as “intellectual naxals”, where the citizens know what they are protesting for and learn to be as humane as possible, lies in the hands of the educators- a responsibility as challenging as planting a tree, because one might not live to enjoy the shade.

Again, in order to avoid situations that erupted in Nepal and Sri Lanka, even though the unruly governments were brought down, educators, millennials and the previous generations should take this as a challenge to shape the glass that is still hot and, in the making, without imposing any forced guidance. Without breaking the confidence and fearlessness of this generation, the older generation of the country must make sure that their potential is channeled in the right direction guided by the democratic values as their pursuit for justice remains rooted in humanity.

The Gen Z protest in India reminded the older generation that it is important to not wait for a better future to unfold but to participate in creating one by educating the denizens of the country in true sense. It proved that digital empowerment and a mind packed with the power of knowledge can bring a corrupt system down to its knees. It weaved a beautiful story that shall continue creating its plot with hashtags and memes; a story to remember and be inspired from. Despite constant criticism, the historic Generation Z lived up to the Utopian world of Tagore:

Where the mind is without fear and the head is held high;
Where knowledge is free;

Where the clear stream of reason has not lost its way into the dreary desert sand of dead habit;
Where the mind is led forward by thee into ever-widening thought and action
Into that heaven of freedom, my Father, let my country awake.
